PROGRAMME OF EXCELLENCE

Dressage & Jumping

The equestrian world has a capital city. Many comparisons have been made in the attempt to underline the standing of the CHIO Aachen, the official event of the Federal Republic of Germany: For instance it has been called the Wimbledon of equestrian sport or the Mecca of the equestrian sport world. The Former German Federal Chancellor, Angela Merkel said, “The heart of the equestrian sport beats in Aachen.”

The most prestigious competitions in the world are staged here in extraordinary stadiums: Whether it is the Rolex Grand Prix of the show-jumpers in front of 40,000 spectators or the dressage competition, the Deutsche Bank Prize, in the spectacular Deutsche Bank Stadium – competing in Aachen is pure fascination and at the same time a great challenge. “Riding with goose bumps” is how the athletes describe what it is like to be immersed in this atmosphere and experience the special moments that are unique to Aachen.

The cutting-edge Deutsche Bank Stadium holds 6,300 spectators and they form the fascinating setting for the proud horses. Not just the stadiums, also the short routes are what distinguish the CHIO Aachen show grounds. And the Albert-Vahle Arena, where the world’s top vaulters battle it out for a place on the winner’s rostrum, is just a few metres in the other direction.

The CHIO Aachen CAMPUS offers multiple, firstclass facilities that we will utilise especially for the Programme of Excellence.
